The conceptual design for the Lake Boga residence has drawn on the location and surrounding environment of the lake and Murray River region. As a Interior Designer I believe that harnessing the essence of the landscape and natural materials in the interior concept will instantly transport the residents into that relaxed holiday tranquility. The interior will be a timeless balance between old and new, providing a highly luxurious setting for a weekend getaway or a permanent home

“Refined Coastal” blends the sophistication of Martha Cove and the calm and tranquil waters of Safety Beach. The stone illicit the surrounding environment of sand, clay and granite while timber is introduced for warmth. It too reflects the flora of eucalypts, banksia and blackwood acacia found in the scrub of Safety Beach.

Inspired by one of Irish country motifs and beliefs of "Tree of life" which represent the uniqueness of all earthly creations of different textures, colours, and shapes. Where the solid trunk is symbolising the strength and a place always return to remember. "Coddle" represents the famous Irish country style dishes in Dublin. The concept of "Dublin Coddle" was to design the space which represent the country and industrial mix style with earthy textures and colours to symbolise the strength of the place and remind the tree of life. The colour palate represents the country vibes of gloomy mountains, smoky shades and mystery around the forest, patterns and designs of crochets and lavish materiality with copper and leather with craftsmanship of brooches.

The concept of “Nexus Sanctuary - Light through darkness, we never disenchant you from your hope” was an inspiring theme on the constitution of the main target market for the facility to provide ‘home away from home’ service by Ronald McDonald Charities. The intentions of “Nexus Sanctuary” were interpreted in few ways.

A vibrant, Contemporary and modern looks with a touch of a new furniture style and colour contrast elements will give a central focus to the Queens Place Residence and yet will reflect the identity of a combination of European & Asian interior architecture.

Modern contemporary was chosen as the main concept for this exciting interior design project. It is our intention to merge what is current new and fresh in the design philosophy that will hold the space together.

Create a space that is open with clean lines and pops of bold colour. Utilize clean lines along with a mixture of textures and materials. Different shades of brown along with white will be the main theme colours throughout. The use of green will bring it all together to create a space that feels modern but also has a Scandinavian style feel to it. The space will be designed create a space that is inviting and exciting and is an extension of the owner's own style and culture. This is somewhere where you can live, work, and play.
